postcard inn

Islamorada, Florida

Photography by CRAIG DENIS

1+2. Postcard Inn's lobby recalls the Florida Keys with its repurposed driftwood ceiling, light fixtures that reference crab and lobster pots, herringbone patterned cement tile intended to mimic ripples of water and sand, and window treatments made from fish box twine normally used to secure nets.

3. The focal point is the reception desk crafted from more than 700 books handpicked for their size and content to create a moiré pattern.
