Breakwater Hospitality Group Selected for Waterfront Restaurant at West Palm Beach's Currie Park Redevelopment

July 1, 2026 | citybiz

Breakwater Hospitality Group has been selected as the top-ranked developer and operator for a new waterfront restaurant at West Palm Beach's $35 million Currie Park redevelopment, advancing a key component of the city's transformation of the Intracoastal Waterway destination.

Following presentations from three finalists, a city evaluation and selection committee ranked Breakwater's proposal first. The company will now enter contract negotiations with the city.

Breakwater's proposed concept, Sea Salt Beach House, is designed as a waterfront destination that combines dining, event space and year-round community programming. The plan includes a 378-seat restaurant with indoor dining, covered terraces and open-air seating, along with a 320-seat rooftop event venue for weddings, civic gatherings and other special events.

The project is being designed with Bigtime Design Studios and also includes a family play area, a grab-and-go kiosk and public programming such as fitness classes, live entertainment, seasonal events and pop-up markets to encourage year-round use of the park.

The restaurant is part of the broader Currie Park redevelopment, which aims to improve public waterfront access while adding new dining, recreation and community gathering spaces.

The selection represents another public-private waterfront redevelopment project for Miami-based Breakwater Hospitality Group, which continues to expand its presence across South Florida.

Founded in 2018 by Emi Guerra and Alex Mantecon, Breakwater Hospitality Group operates several hospitality destinations, including Regatta Grove in Coconut Grove, JohnMartin's in Coral Gables, The Wharf Fort Lauderdale and PIER 5 at Bayside. The company is also developing Riverside Wharf, a mixed-use waterfront destination along the Miami River scheduled to open in 2028.
